Design your deck for the meeting you're not in

Aidan McFarlane

aidanmdesign.xyz

01

Your deck travels without you

In Japan, decisions often go through ringi, a written approval passed from desk to desk.

In Korea it’s gyeoljae, sign-off moving up the hierarchy.

Your contact → Manager →

Director

Make it explain itself

Rationale On the slide, not in your voiceover

Brief First, so every reviewer judges the same goal

Risks Claims, consistency and formats, answered upfront

Show it how they'll see it

In place — On a phone, on a station wall. Not flat artboards

Language — Key slides translated, not summarised by someone else

Version — Number and date on every page

02

The no-context test

Send the deck to a colleague with no background.

If they can’t explain the recommendation back, the approver won’t either.

- ✓ Reads clearly when forwarded
- ✗ Needs you in the room

A deck that needs you in the room stalls when it leaves it.

Taking a Western brand into Japan, Korea or wider APAC?

Give me a shout

Aidan McFarlane · aidanmdesign.xyz

